

Help us share the Crete Declaration!

If you support the message "Uniting Science for One Health", help us amplify it!

Below are some quick ways you can spread the word:

IF YOU HAVE ONE MINUTE:

- Like, comment, or share our post to help us boost visibility! You can repost our announcement on your channels:

IF YOU HAVE THREE MINUTES:

- Post the Crete Declaration on your Social Media channels, here's a few lines you can use and adapt:
 - Longer version: A group of European Research Infrastructures, projects and organisations coordinated by LifeWatch ERIC are joining forces to explore shared solutions to today's global challenges. Together they have signed a Declaration of Intent to strengthen collaboration, the integration of research outputs, and open

science to safeguard the health of people, animals and ecosystems. Read the Declaration and find out how you can get involved! 📌 <https://bit.ly/4pe6V8o>

IF YOU HAVE FIVE MINUTES:

- Share the Crete Declaration by sending a quick email to your colleagues or partners:
 - Dear colleagues,

We are pleased to share the Crete Declaration, a collective call to reinforce cooperation across Europe to support the One Health approach and open-science innovation. If aligned with your mission, we kindly invite you to endorse and share it. Link: <https://bit.ly/4pe6V8o>.

Thank you for joining this effort!

IF YOU HAVE TEN MINUTES:

- Add the Declaration link (<https://www.lifewatch.eu/crete-declaration/>) to your website or newsletter, here's a text you can use:

The Crete Declaration (<https://www.lifewatch.eu/crete-declaration/>) is a Declaration of Intent signed on 30 June 2025, on the occasion of the BEeS 2025 Conference, during the "Working Table on Life component of the Biosphere: Complementarities and Synergies". The event gathered European Research Infrastructures (RIs), projects and organisations with the common goal of exploring shared solutions to today's global challenges.

Coordinated by LifeWatch ERIC, the signing of the Crete Declaration followed the Working Table's objective of defining a collaborative roadmap among the parties. Their shared ambition is to advance the One Health approach, a strategy to optimise the health of people, animals, and ecosystems, through collaboration, research product integration, and open science.

This is of vital importance since the challenges of our time (climate change, biodiversity degradation, emerging diseases and many others) are complex and deeply intertwined, and therefore demand a joint effort of complementary strengths.

The policy brief containing the Crete Declaration is now published on the RIO (Research Ideas and Outcomes) journal, as the latest contribution to the LifeWatch ERIC Strategic Working Plan Outcomes open-science collection (https://riojournal.com/topical_collection/243/), a one-stop access point to the most important deliverables by the research infrastructure consortium.

The Declaration focused the signatories' commitment around four key strategic points:

- Strengthening the strategic collaboration
- Advancing data integration and FAIR principles
- Supporting Open Science Ecosystems
- Informing Policy and Practice

The parties welcome all European stakeholders committed to One Health to endorse this Declaration and contribute to its implementation.
